

Bees come out in early spring. If you see a huge cluster of bees, call a beekeeper. Do not call a bee exterminator please. The bees are not hostile. They have no eggs or honey to defend when you see them like this. They're stopping for a quick break.

Please don't spray them. Contact a beekeeper and they will come out and take them! Swarms will soon be popping up! They're just looking for new homes, let a beekeeper rehome them for you!

SAVE THE BEES!
